Mayor Tran, Vice Mayor Grilli, and Council Members

Preliminary Election Results:
The Santa Clara County Registrar of Voters (ROV) continues to diligently work on completing the count of all ballots cast for election held this past Tuesday. As of Friday morning, 58% of the total estimated ballots expected to be cast had been counted. Official ballots are tallied from election night up to the certification of election results, which occurs 30 days following an election.

While the official election results are not yet finalized, Measure R has a very strong lead with over 66.63% in favor of the proposed increase in hotel tax. With such a wide margin of support, there is a high level of confidence that the measure will pass. Next steps regarding implementation and policy development will need to be considered by the Council over the next few months.

In the Mayoral race, Mayor Tran currently has a significant lead with 47% of the vote. For the City Council race where there are two open seats, the votes are extremely close among Carmen Montano, Karina Dominguez, Councilmember Barbadillo and Vice Mayor Grilli. With only a difference of a couple hundred votes. We will continue to monitor election results over the next few days. The ROV is keeping their website up-to-date on a frequent basis, which can be found by visiting the following link: https://results.enr.clarityelections.com/CA/Santa_Clara/92418/Web02.216033/#/

Community/Social Service Trainings:
On Monday, November 5, staff attended an LGBTQ Competency Training hosted by, “Rise.” The training was hosted at the Sobrato Center for Non-Profits in San Jose and included dozens of non-profit and government agencies from around the Bay Area. The training highlighted the need for awareness and education for staff supervising youth and teens and how education, support and acceptance can lead to minimizing suicide rates and keeping these individuals out of the juvenile detention system. Attendees were educated on the importance of use of gender natural language such as they/them instead of he/him and she/her. This gender natural language shows individuals that an agency or organization is a safe place, free from hate. An easy way to begin implementing this in our agency could be to change basic forms from gender specific to gender natural. Lessons from this training will be shared with the new Suicide Prevention Task Force as well as teen center program leaders for implementation.
